

A Good Night Out? Scenairo Cards

Drinking

A group of five young men agree to go to the pub on a Friday night. Jake goes straight there after work; Dennis gets fed by his mum before he goes out; the others are planning to eat later in the evening. The pub is hot and busy; it's got extended hours because there's a DJ on tonight. Two of the group get chatting to a couple of girls and are buying them shots to drink. They are all getting pretty drunk. Someone bumps into Jake, apologises and hurries outside; Jake makes to go after him, but Dennis pulls him back. Jake is swaying a lot by now and keeps falling over; the girls have had enough and move away, but Jake and Dennis keep pestering them for a dance. Eventually a bloke they don't know steps in and asks them to leave the girls alone as they're not interested...

Drinking and drugs

A mixed group of teenagers are in the park on a summer afternoon, celebrating a friend's birthday, drinking beer and smoking a few spliffs. The day's cooling down and the beers are running out and people are discussing what to do next. Billy suggests everyone comes back to his house as his parents are away for the weekend. A bloke comes along and one of the group recognises him as a local dealer his cousin knows, so he goes over to talk to him. Later, the dealer shows up again at Billy's house with a couple of his mates. Billy and a few others buy some drugs and take them. One of the girls keeps going back and asking for more, saying it's not doing anything. The next thing she's gone very pale, slumped on the sofa and her eyes are rolling in the back of her head...

One partner on drugs

Jade and Chris have been going out together for a couple of months. They've arranged to meet at a party one of her friend's is having. Jade gets there a little bit late but there's no sign of Chris. She chats to a few people and has a few soft drinks – she agreed to drive tonight. She's enjoying herself but is wondering what's happened to Chris. He arrives with two mates and she can see that he's taken something already: he's a bit hyper and can't concentrate on what she's saying. She hopes it'll wear off and goes to talk to some other people for a while. She's just thinking about going home, when she hears some shouting and banging around upstairs...

Nightclub drugs

Four girls are getting ready for a night out; Kara is particularly excited because she thinks Rob, a guy she really fancies is going to be there. They want to get to the club early so they don't have to queue for ages. They manage to get a good corner to hang out and soon get talking to a bunch of friendly people sitting next to them. One of them is offered some pills and she takes them. Kara keeps going off to look for this guy Rob. Her friends meet Rob on the dance floor and don't think much of him, but Kara's clearly really keen on him. The other girls have a great evening and eventually it's time to go home. No sign of Kara. They go over to Rob's mates and ask if they've seen Kara – they think she left the club with Rob about 10 minutes earlier...